Pantagraph Central Illinois Service.

DWIGHT.—James Hanly, 65, of Chicago, was killed at 11:40 a. m. Wednesday when the car in which he was riding crashed into a guard rail along U. S. route 66 at the north edge of Dwight. The accident occurred just north of the New York Central railroad crossing. Snow on the highway caused the car to skid.

Diving into the protective rails along the road, one of the timbers penetrated the front end of the car, struck Hanly in the abdomen and pushed him into the back seat. Hanly's wife, riding in the rear seat, suffered chest injuries but was not seriously hurt.

The driver and owner of the car, Carl Carlson, 40, of Chicago, was uninjured. The trio was enroute to Arkansas.

Coroner John Keeley of Forrest held an inquest here Wednesday afternoon at which time a verdict of accidental death due to slippery pavement was reported by the jury.
